

On Heights & Hunger is the story of two professional and competitive tree-climbing brothers, both hungry for transcendence and adventure, coming to terms with their relationship to the divine, the family that first provided a framework for faith, and their own obsessions, victories, and failures.

“Josh MacIvor-Andersen straps the pieces of his own story to his back and takes us up into the canopy above, into a ‘tree hunger’ where he shaves and prunes and cuts until he arrives at the many shimmering truths of this beautifully told profession of love: for his brother, for physical labor, for the earth we have abused, for the search for God, for beauty, for the right woman, for the way to live this one life we are all given. This is one of the finest memoirs I’ve read in quite a while.”
— Andre Dubus III

“The most gripping, insightful, fire-bright memoir I’ve read in a very long time.” — Jeremy Hawkins, author of The Last Days of Video

— Kyle Minor, author of Praying When Drunk

“There is wrestling in these pages —honest and painful wrestling with demons and doubt, and it is this essayistic reckoning through story that pulls me in and keeps me watching, almost hypnotized.”
— Steven Church, author of One With the Tiger

“With a storyteller’s heart and a poet’s sensibility, Josh MacIvor-Andersen uncovers everything dangerous and divine in the Tennessee treetops.” — Jeremy B. Jones, author of Bearwallow

“There’s a mighty lot of chainsaws and testosterone in this tale of purely male energy in youth—and then, surprise, it ripens into deep tenderness for all sentient beings. Truly half out of their minds when young, Aaron and Josh grow into men of compassion and ineffable sweetness. MacIvor-Andersen’s On Heights & Hunger is a gorgeous and big-hearted memoir.” — Diana Hume George, author of The Lonely Other
